INGERSOLL ON BLAINE.

A Few Remarks That Will Bear Reading at the Present Juneture. Speech of Robert G. Ingersell, of Illinois, in the Re-publican Convention of 1876. The Republicans of the United States lemand as their leader in the great conest a man of intellect, a man of integrity man of well-known and approved political opinions. They demand a statesman They demand a reformer after, as well as sefore, the election. They demand a politician in the highest, the broadest, and the best sense of that word. They demand a man acquainted with public affairs, with the wants of the people, with he requirements of the hour not only, out with the demands of the future. They nend the relation of this Government to he other nations of the earth. They de nand a man well versed in the powers, luties, and prerogatives of each and every duties, and prerogatives of each and every department 'of this Government. They demand a man who will sacredly preserve the financial honor of the United States; one who knows enough to know that the national debt must be paid through the prosperity of this people; one who knows enough to know that all the financial theories in the world cannot redeem a single dollar; one who knows enough to know that all the money must be made, when the think the money must be made, is a disgrace to the map of the world. They demand a man who believes in the eternal separation and divorcement of church and school. They demand a man whose political reputation is as spotless as a star; but they do not demand that their candidate shall have a certificate of moral character signed by the Confederate congress. The man who has, in full, complete, and rounded measure, all of these splendid qualifications is the present grand and gallant leader of the Republican party—James G. Blaine.

Our country, crowned by the vast and marvellous achievements of its first century, asks for a man worthy her past and prophetic of her future; asks for a man who has the audacity of genius; asks for a man who has the audacity of genius; asks for a man who has the grandest combination of heart, conscience and brain the world ever saw. That man is James G. Blaine. For the Republican hosts, led by this interpid man, there can be no such thing as defeat. This is a grand year—a year filled with broud and tender memories of the sacred past; filled with legends of liberty—a year in which the people call for the man who has preserved in Congress what their soldiers won upon the dield—a year in which the yeall for the man who has torn from the throat of treason the tongue of slander; the man who has snatched the mask of Democracy the mercurial diseased pa-tient, how they recoveral health, cheerful spirits and good appetite; they will tall you by taking treason the tongue of slander; the man who has snatched the mask of Democracy from the hideous face of the Rebel-lion; the man who, like the intellectual athlete, hath stood in the arena of debate challenging all comers, and who up to the present moment is a total stran-ger to defeat. Like an armed warrior, like a plumed knight, James G. Blaine marched down the halls of the American like a plumed knight, James G. Blaine marched down the halls of the American Congress and threw his skining lance full and fair against the brazen forebead of every traitor to his country and every maligner of his fair reputation. For the Republican party to desert that gallant man now is as though an army should desert their general upon the field of battle. James G. Blaine is now and has been for years the bearer of the sacred standard of the Republican party. I call it sacred because no human being can stand beneath its folds without becoming and without remaining free.

Gentlemen of the Convention: In the name of the great Republic, the only Republic that ever existed upon the face of the earth; in the name of all her soldiers living; in the name of all her soldiers that died upon the field of battle, and in the name of those that perished if the skeleton clutch of famine at Andersonville and Libby, whose sufferings he so vividly remembers, Illinois—Illinois mominates for the next President of this country that prince of parliamentarians, that leaders of leaders, James G. Blaine.

The court says, "This is too well settled in England and in the States of the seems a pity to disturb the pleasant idea that dogs are universally recognized as property, as above declared and justified. But contemporaneously down in Texas; where it would seem that dogs ought to be ore thought of than in the District of folumbia, the courts hold just the regres. It is there held that dogs are not operty within the constitutional provisu for taxation; but a statute exempting edge to each family, and taxing all lears at a fixed rate, under a penalty for penaltyment, is valid as a police regulation. The presemble of the statute in etion is worth quoting: "Whereas e are in many localities in this State a 'large number of dogs, and there are glandlocations of a prevalence of hy hobbia, from which much darses." But contemporaneously down in Texas, where it would seem that dogs ought to be more thought of than in the District of pipe, filted them and put the pipe up, and the extraction of the courts hold just the results of the would seem that dogs ought to be more thought of than in the District of the courts hold just the results of the courts hold just the result of the courts hold just the results of the courts hold just the r

But dogs and cats, even in a state of domestication, never wholly lose their wild natures and distinctive instincts, and are kept either for uses which depend on retaining or calling info action those very natures and instincts, or else for mere whim or pleasure of the owner; and therefore although man may have such right of property in a dog as to maintain treepass or trover for unlawfully taking or destroying it, yet he was held, in the phrase of the books, to have 'no absolute or valuable property' therein which could be subject of a prosecution for larceny at common law, or even, according to some authorities, of an action of detinue or replevin, or a distress for real, or which would make him responsible for the trespasses of his dog on the land of other cattle. And dogs have always been held by the American courts to be entitled to less legal regard and protection than more harmless and useful domestic animals."

The court also quotes from State against Marshall (in Texas) as follows:

"By the common law, though a man may have such a property in these animals as to entitle him to maintain a civil action for an injury done to maintain a civil action for an injury done them, yet subsy ace and the common."

AMERICAN WHEAT AND MEAT.

ompetition With British Farmers. Comparative Cost of Production.

London papers report the proceedings of recent meeting of the London Farmers Club, at which Mr. Finley Dunn read a caper on American production of wheat and meat. He pointed out that the United States at present produced about one fourth the wheat grown in the world. Acarea is upward of 32,000,000 acres, or ten times that of the British Islands. He entered into the cost of production of food in the States, and gave figures showing that they were a quarter less than in England, and he gave the cost of cultivating theories in the world cannot redeem a single dollar; one who knows enough to know that all the money must be made, not by law, but by labor; one who knows enough to know that the people of the United States have the industry to make the money and the honor to pay it over upon as they can. The Republicans of the United States demand a man who knows that prosperity and resumption, when they come, must come together; when they come, must come together; when they come they will come hand in hand through the golden harvest fields; hand in hand by the whirling spindles and the turning wheels; hand in hand past the open furnace doors; hand in hand by the flaming forges; hand in hand by the flaming forges; hand in hand by the enting wheels; hand in hand past the open furnace doors; hand in hand by the flaming forges; hand in hand past the open furnace doors; hand in tion. The Republicans of the United States want a man who knows that this government should protect every citizen at home or abroad; who knows that any government that will not defend its defenders, and will not protect its protectors, is a disgrace to the map of the world. They demand a man who believes in the quarter more than can be got for the thinner ordinary No. 2 American. With the risks of indifferent seasons there can be only slender and precarious profit in grow only sienger and precarious pront in growing wheat in this country at 44s, or 45s.

What can be substituted for it on poor clays and thin, weak solls, which produce at best about three-quarters an acre, comes not within my subject. With better prospect, it will continue to be grown on soil where four-quarters can generally be counted on, where no restriction is laid on the sale of the straw and where in addithe sale of the straw, and where, in addi-tion to the grain, the straw will realize £4 or £5 an acre. It is only under such fav-orable circumstances that British farmers or to an acte. At some such as orable circumstances that British farmers can depend upon profitably producing wheat at 45s, per quarter, which, with extending cultivation throughout the world and tolerably good crops, will probably be its average value for years to come."

The Speaker then entered fully into the question of meat production in the United States, and, while he held that the American (States and Canadian) pig breeders were masters of the situation in producing pork and bacon at 3d a pound, he acknowledged that in sheep English flock masters would hold their own. In conclusion, he said: "For years to come America must certainly be able to furnish enormous supplies of her surplus, both of wheat and meat. The exports of butcher meat, although hitherto limited, must unter tle will come freely during summer, while finer weather can be counted on. The ocean charges are £3 to £4 per head, while 20s. to 30s. extra covers the cost of food and attendance during the voyage. For about £8 a ballock, which would be purchased at £4 per pound dear weight, can thus be brought from his native ranges on the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains and landed in Liverpool. This transit charge would add less than ½dt, per pound to his carcass of beef. The transport of dead meat is still less. The superior beef slaughtered in New York and other Atlantic ports and brought over in ice cooled chambers, reaching Great Britain in excellent condition, is disposed of at the landing ports at 6d. Large foreign supplies of really good meat, offered wholesais at 6d., must puil down the price of ordinary English meat to 74d or 7d. The British farmer was able some years ago to make meat at 7d celes. We must do so main." was able some years ago to make meat at 7d. or less. We must do so again."

RADICAL CURE COL REV. D. S. MONROE,

I have recommended it to quite a number of my friends, all of whom have expressed to me their high estimate of its value and good ef-fects with them. WM. BOWEN, 225 PINE ST., ST. LOUIS,

We have sold Sanfond's Radical Cure for several years, and can say candidly that we never sold a similar preparation that gave such universal satisfaction. We have yet to learn of the first complaint,
S. D. BALDWIN & CO.,
WASHINGTON, IND.

No sooner did I begin to use it than my symptoms changed. It cleared my throat, it cleared my system in a way that nothing ever before given me by doctors had done.

SAMUEL B! INNEY,

MEADOW VALE, N. S.

The cure effected in my case by Sanford's Radical Cure was so remarkable that it seem Egine cure educated in my case by SANFORD 2 RADICAL Curk was ser canarkable that it seemed to those who had suffered without relief from any of the usual remedies that it could not be true. I therefore made affidavit to it before Seth J. Thomas, Esp., Justice of the Peace, Boston.

GEORGE F. DINSMORE,

Datesiary, Boston.

One of the best remedies for Catarrh, nay, the best remedy we have found in a lifetime of suffering, is announ? Ranicat Cers. It is not unpleasant to take through the nostrils, and there comes with each tottle a small glass tube for use in inhalation. It clears the head and throat so thoroughly that, taken each morbing on rising, there are no unpleasant secretions and no disagreeable hawking during the entire day, but an unprecedented clearness of voice and respiratory organs.—
